HOW CHRISTIAN FAITH PROMOTES MENTAL HEALTH

It Provides Courage to Face Problems.

Helps re-arrange our scale of values, put first things first. Provides a cause to which one can commit oneself with unqualified devotion. Gives assurance of support in our struggle for righteousness.

Phil 4:13 I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me. Enables Us to Discover and Do the will of God. (Find purpose for our lives.)

Men are made by gods they serve—by purpose to which devoted. Romans 12:1-Love to God and fellowman is unifying and socializing—assures us that we are cooperating with ultimate Divine purpose.

To find God's will for you: Study Christ and the apostles; pray and meditate. Think concerning your existence.

Beware of putting forward your own will; do God's will in small things. When decision and action are necessary, go ahead. Some day you will discover that you have been led. Necessary that we have religious commitment. Religion is betting your life on God!

Religion Provides an Undergirding Philosophy, Essential to Happiness.

Every positive command and negative command of God is for the happiness of mankind. When we go counter to His commands, we rob ourselves of just that much success and happiness in life. We live in a law-abiding universe—no exemptions. We must work with that law, intelligently and with conviction that “we are workers with God.”

Religion Provides a God-conscious Life Which is Essential to “Abundant Life.”

Life is measured in terms of awareness of environment. It is opening the eyes to see, the mind to understand, and the heart to appreciate.

Abundance of life depends not only on these, but also on the adequacy of our adjustment to it. Self-denial is the way of true self – realization. Achievement of the fullness of life requires that we develop our potential.

We have great waste of time and talent. We give ourselves to petty and trivial interests, rather than being dedicated to a higher and holy cause. We are too easily satisfied with the insignificant, when we might live mightily for good and eternity.

Remember that religion is not repressive, inhibiting. It seeks not to limit or narrow life, but to give us life enriched and deepened, enlarged and set free. It offers to us “life more abundant” indeed.
