Mother's Day

Every year Mother's Day is anticipated by many as a chance to show their love, and thanks to their wives, and mothers for all they do. Fathers, and children look forward to it, and rush to the nearest mall to get the latest Mother's Day gift or card. But, our mothers deserve much more than that. They are the backbone of the human family. This is a fact that we men often fail to comprehend. We think we are so smart, so much more discerning than our wives. We do not show them the respect they deserve.

It is mothers, not fathers, who carry the greatest burden in life, and are much more in tune to what real life is all about. A mother thinks day, and night about the well-being of her children. She is the first to praise them, and to comfort them, and the first to protect them when she senses that they may be in danger. It is she who has carried them, and borne the pains of pregnancy, and childbirth, and who continues to carry them in her heart.

There is an old Jewish saying: "God could not be everywhere at once, so he gave each child a mother." Of course we know the old Jewish saying is wrong for God is everywhere, but you understand what is meant. If we appreciate our mother's, we will feel a lot better about ourselves, not to mention the transforming effect on our children when they realize that Dad, and Mom truly love, and care for each other, and for their children.

This Mother's Day--and every day--Do your best to show your mother how much you appreciate her for everything she has done for you, for your children and grandchildren, and for many others as well. Because, to quote a profound saying: "Iff'n Mama ain't happy, ain't nobody happy."
